DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Conover (6,169,581) in view of Wilson (6,594,330).

Regarding claim 1, Conover discloses a vertical sync phase locked loop (114, col. 5, lines 23-25) showing a sync phase detector 102, a voltage controlled oscillator 106, and an output logic 109), except the vertical sync discrete time oscillator as claimed. Wilson, from the similar field of endeavor, teaches that a conventional analog phase locked loop can be replaced with a digital phase locked loop (col. 1, lines 59-65). Hence, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to replace the voltage controlled oscillator 106 of Conover with the digitally controlled oscillator 208 of Wilson to perform the well known functions as claimed.

Regarding claim 2, Conover shows a loop filter 104.

3. Claims 3 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Conover (6,169,581) in view of Wilson (6,594,330), and further in view of Janesch et al. (6,018,556).

Regarding claim 3, Conover does not explicitly show the detail structure of the loop filter as claimed. Janesch, from the similar field of endeavor, shows a conventional loop filter 166, which shows a first multiplier 201, a first adder 204, a second multiplier 202, and a decay accumulator 203. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to employ the loop filter of Janesch as the loop filter in Conover to perform the well known functions as claimed since the loop filter of Conover could be any conventional loop filters.

Regarding claim 4, see amplifiers 201 and 202.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 5-22 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims:

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Culp (4,577,163) shows a digital PLL.

Takeuchi (5,068,731) shows a vertical sync PLL.

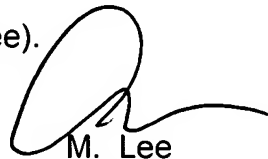

Nienaber (4,611,230) shows a vertical sync PLL.

Andrews et al. (4,701,795) shows a vertical sync based PLL.
